"THE SEEKERS"

Flora Parker De Haven stars in this five reel Red Feather production. Nothing adds more to a human interest drama, such as is "The Seekers," than a quiet setting, a portrayal of customs and manners out of the ordinary. "The Seekers" are members of a religious sect, and the prettiest human flower of the lot is Flora. Devoted to Charitable works, she becomes a nurse in the home of a preacher, one of the leaders of the community. Her brother, convicted and sentenced to prison for a crime of which he was innocent, is destined to play a large share in her life. Now if you want to see and enjoy a fine play, with splendid acting, see "The Seekers." A strong play that you will be glad to see.

Also a comedy number.

IN DEFENSE OF THE HUNCH

Maybe It Is Superstition, But If You Are Wise You Will Heed Yours Next Time.

"Play your hunches" is a good rule to follow. It is not a direction to the superstitious alone. Indeed, it is to be doubted that the superstitious derive much benefit from their hunches. They have no many charms upon which to place reliance that they look rather unfavorably upon such a practical help as a hunch. The practical minded, no doubt, will deny that a hunch has any value, but that is because they are not as practical as they think they are. Common sense does not ignore hunches, and without common sense one cannot have practical sense.

A hunch is an impulse to the judgment, declares a writer in the Pittsburgh Gazette Times. It is an involuntary mental operation, an instantaneous appeal to and inclination of the judgment upon the outcome of which momentous consequences for weal or woe may depend. It may be instinctive or it may be intuitive, but it is an imperative demand for action. It does not always compel the right action, though usually it does. It is a sleepless outlook, an ever-alert monitor within the human mind that sounds a warning and points the road of safety. In that case the unthinking regard it as a premonition. If the instant action upon it avoids disaster to him to whom it comes he usually credits it to luck. Really he should know that it has been saved by a hunch.

There is the case of that New Haven engineer who averted a serious wreck near Waterbury, Conn. Driving along at high speed he had a hunch that all was not right on the track ahead. His judgment told him to stop. He did, and only a few persons were injured when the train ran into a clogged switch. Had he not acted promptly on his hunch another terrible wreck probably would have been reported. There was good fruit from the teachings of safety first. An appeal to the judgment through a hunch (an unaccountable suspicion), right inclination of the judgment through practical sense in instantaneous, and wisdom to act without further knowledge. That's all there is to it. No superstition. No guessing. A complete vindication for the hunch. Better act on yours.

PROMINENT BANKER CONFESSES

Feels That His Friends Should Know All.

In a recent letter to the Hays' Medicine Co., of Paducah, Ky., manufacturers of the famous new treatment for general disability, "Hays' Specific," Mr. S. B. Hughes, one of the most prominent bankers in the state of Kentucky, says:

For the benefit of any of my friends and acquaintances who may be afflicted with kidney or liver troubles, I state that I have found in Hays' Specific an efficient remedy and, I believe, a permanent cure for myself. For some time I was a sufferer from a disorder of these organs and finally resorted to Hays' Specific. It is with no degree of pride that I permit my name to be used to promote the interest of the manufacture of this remedy, but that it may be of some benefit to my friends.

This great preparation is for sale now in Chickasha by H. J. Brownson.
